Abstract

The background of this study was sparked by the demonstration of Civil Servant teachers who rejected the Mayor's Instruction No. 1 year 2013 aiming to optimize the fundraising of income Zakat (Profession Zakat), infaq and Sadaqah among Civil Servants and Employees of governmental enterprises in the Pekanbaru city. The mayor's instruction did not necessarily get a positive response from all parties, even the teachers objected their salary received every month gets a cut of 2.5% from the Department of Education. They considered that the payment of zakat is the awareness of individuals not on coercion. This descriptive study aimed to determine how the Civil Servant teachers' perception of Pekanbaru City on the Mayor's Instruction No. 1 Year 2013 regarding Income Zakat (Profession Zakat) was. The data used in this study were primary data and secondary data. The primary data were collected through questionnaires distributed to civil servant teachers of Pekanbaru, while secondary data were obtained from books, literature, internet, and other media. The analytical method used was a descriptive statistical method, it provides the data presentation with charts, graphs, pie charts and percentages then described. The Population in this study were 2,726 moslem civil servant teachers and the sample taken were 96 of them. From the calculation of 96 respondents surveyed, 16.37% stated strongly agree, 21.33% stated agree, 17.36% stated neutral, 42.1% stated disagree, and 2.53% stated strongly disagree. In conclusion, the results showed that most civil servant teachers were "disagree" with the Mayor's Instruction No. 1 Year 2013 regarding Income Zakat (Profession Zakat).

INTRODUCTION

Islam is a complete religion, which rules all aspects of human life. Islam is a religion that is able to balance the relationship between human and God (hablumminallah) and the relation among human beings (habluminannas). The teachings of Islam is a complete religion teachings that provide solutions of humanity in ways of life. As explained in the Qur'an Surah An-Nahl verse 89:

Translation: "(And remember) the day (when) we raised in every nation a witness over them from themselves, and We brought thou (Muhammad) to be a witness over all humanity. And

We have sent down to thou the Book (Qur'an) to explain everything, and guide and have mercy and inform glad tidings to those who surrender (Muslims) "(Ministry of Religious Affairs, 2009). Zakat (tithing) is a kind of charity that is often described in the Qur'an. Allah SWT explained that Zakat is simultaneously with the prayer. No wonder if zakat becomes the third pillar of Islam. Zakat is also as the guaranty for the needs of the poor and the state. Zakat is an obligation imposed on the property, as a form of the harmonious relationship among the human beings (habluminannas). The deed of zakat, if accomplished well, will bring peace of mind and tranquility of life because owned properties become clean and blessing. Moreover, if zakat is well-managed and well-distributed, it will improve the welfare of people evenly. As described in the Qur'an about the object and source of zakat in Surah At-Tauba verse 103:

Translation: "Take zakat of their wealth in order to cleanse and purify them and then pray for them. Indeed your praying (will) foster peace for their souls. Allah is Hearing, All-Knowing ". (Ministry of Religious Affairs, 2009).

Zakat is as the only worship that contains the socio-economic dimension, which can be used as a foundation in the economic development of society including individual, group or nation's economic development that has been being practiced since the period of Rasulullah Muhammad pbuh. In essence, the principle of zakat relates to the circle of wealth between the rich and the poor. Such wealth circle can eliminate jealousy and social inequality.

On consequences of rapid development of the science, technology and economic activities with all of those variances have created a great distinction of economic pattern today compared with what happened in the days of Rasulullah Muhammad pbuh. Along with the development of livelihood and economic activities which expand continuously, then the types of wealth that should be included in Zakat are also diverse.

In Indonesia, for example in the field of agriculture, the current function of agriculture is not only based on an attempt to supply staple food (such as rice and corn) but it also has been closely linked to the trade sector. Similarly, the trade sector has been growing rapidly nowadays, including commodity trade in agricultural products, forest products, marine products, and etc. Also in the service bussiness, the develment of service bussiness has created many new professions, such as consultants in various fields of life, health workers (many kinds of doctors and other medical personnel), experts in various fields, employers as well as employees in various economic fields, and so forth (Hafidhuddin, 2002)

These developments demand the indonesian government to issue some regulations on the management of zakat including Law No. 38 of 1999, but this Act were considered insufficient to accommodate the development potential of zakat in Indonesia, later the Commission VIII of the House of Representatives along with the Government revised the Law No. 38 of 1999 and issued a new law on the management of the zakat, namely Law No. 23 of 2011.

In addition, local Government (municipal goverment) also participated to issue regional regulations concerning with the management of zakat, including Bandung city regional regulation No. 30 year 2002, Semarang city regional regulation No. 7 year 2009, Ternate city regional regulation No. 30 year 2011, Padang city regional regulation No. 02 year 2010, Banjarmasin city regional regulation No. 1 year 2014, and other regional regulations in other cities. Regional regulations are aimed to optimize the management and fundraising of zakat.

These regional regulations have become the basis for the payment of zakat through direct payroll deductions of civil servants. Unfortunately, a lot of civil servants objected to these regional regulations with reasons that there are too many other payroll deductions and the suspicion of non-transparent zakat distribution.

However, In relation to efforts to optimize the fundraising of Income Zakat (Profession Zakat), infaq and Sadaqah of Civil Servants and Employees of governmental enterprises in the city of Pekanbaru, as referred to the Law No. 23 year 2011 concerning the management of zakat and the Decree of the Minister of Religion No. 373 year 2003 on the implementation of Law No. 38 year 1999, the municipal government of Pekanbaru also issued the Mayor's instruction No. 1 year 2013 concerning with Income Zakat (Profession Zakat), Infaq and Shadaqah on Civil Servants and Employees of governmental enterprises in the city of Pekanbaru. Based on the regional regulation No. 1 Year 2013, each Civil Servant of pekanbaru city whose a minimum income IDR 3.740.000, - is subjected to a withholding income Zakat (Profession Zakat) of 2.5%. Similarly, the mayor's Instruction No. 1 Year 2013 on Income Zakat (Profession Zakat) does not necessarily get a positive response from all parties. The demonstration of rejection were conducted by the teachers who objected their monthly salaries get a cut of 2.5% from the Department of Education. They consider that the religious charity is not on coercion but it depends on individual consciousness. Additionally, they suspect that the less transparent and less socialization of zakat management became the basic reasons of rejection among Civil Servants.

Therefore, through this study, that the main problem identified was: How were the civil servant teachers' perceptions of Pekanbaru City on the Mayor's Instruction No. 1 Year 2013 regarding Income Zakat (Profession Zakat)?

The Theory of Perception

The term of "perception" is derived from latin language. Etymologically, it means accepting or taking. Perception is a process which shares selected stimuli, organizes and interpretes into meaningful information. (Ferrinadewi, 2008)

Perception is an experience of objects, events, or relationships obtained by concluding information and interpreting the meaning message. Perception is to provide sensory stimuli. (Rakhmat, 2012)

Perception is essentially a cognitive process experienced by everyone in understanding the information about the environment, whether through sight, sound, appreciation, feeling, and smell. (Thoha, 2011)

There are several internal and external factors which affect the selection process of perception. Those factors are (Thoha, 2012): First, the internal factors. Internal factors consist of: (1) understanding. It is an inside factor which forms the attention to an object so that raises the perception based on the psychological complexity as described earlier; (2) motivation. The motivation is the impulse that arises in a person consciously or unconsciously to perform an action with a particular purpose; (3) Personality. It forms different opinions in resolving a problem between two people or among groups, each person only depends on his/her personal ideas.

Second, external factors. The external factors consist of: (1) intensity. Intensity means the ability, the power of persistence, High level or degree and frequency of time; (2) Size. The larger the size of an object, the easier it is to be known or understood, (3) Difference. Someone will be more easily perceived by others, especially if he/she has different characteristics than the others; (4) Repetition. Repetition is a matter presented many times so it will attract greater attention than those seen very few time; (5) Movement. Moving objects will attract a lot of attention of vision than stationary objects; (6) The novelty. This principle states either the new or already known external situation can be used to attract attention.

The Concept of Teachers

In Islamic terminology, the term 'teacher' has close meaning to the murrabby, a word root of the god. So, the function and the roles of teachers in the education system are one manifestation of the divine. Such noble teacher's position, as to the Lord, in the sense as rabb identifying himself as "the Lord of the world, the Supreme Master or Master the entire universe ". (Sholeh, 2006)

A teacher is a trusted and followed person. A trusted person means a person who can be believed. A followed person means someone who can be a model for his/her students. According to the Sanskrit language, the word teacher is defined as "guru", it is a combination of words gu and ru. Gu means darkness, stagnation or shade. While Ru means to let go, get rid of or freed. So, teachers are human beings who "fight" continuously and gradually, to release the people from darkness. (Aziz, 2012)

The Indonesian Law No. 14 Year 2005 on Teachers and Lecturers (article 1, paragraph 1) states that: "Teachers are professional educators with the primary task of educating, teaching, guiding, directing, training, assessing and evaluating students on early childhood education, formal education, basic education and secondary education ". (Editor Team Yustisia Library, 2009).

The Concept of Civil Servant

In Indonesian law No. 5 year 2014 concerning the State Civil Administrative, a Civil Servant is an Indonesian citizen who meet certain requirements, was appointed as an officer regularly by the staff development officers for the position in government. (Source: law No. 5 year 2014 on State Civil Apparatus).

Civil Servants are those who: a). Work for either in the governmental department, the governmental Non-department institutions, the Secretariat of State Institutions, Agencies in Provinces, Districts, Cities, Registrar of the Court, the military and police agencies; b). Work on the Provinces/Regencies/Cities; c). Work in the Autonomous Regions, and organizations that administer public services; d). do other governmental tasks, such as the judge in the District Court, High Court and so forth; e). The salary is charged to the state budget or regional budget. (Suradji, 2003: 4-5).

The Nature of Zakat

In terms of language, the word zakat has several meanings, namely al-barakatu means blessing, al-namaa means 'growth' and 'development', ath-thaharatu means 'sanctity', and ash-shalahu 'well-done'. (al- a'rabiyah, 1972 & Hafidhuddin, 2002)

Zakat or "Zakah" literally means "increase" or "improvement" or "food". Another Deveratif of the word refers to "clean". So, zakat means "growing", "increase" or "clean". That is because zakat helps to clean the human soul from stinginess, selfishness, lust and greedy for wealth, and thus, it helps the growth and development of the soul. Technically, zakat is obligatory contribution, a kind of tax levied from the rich and distributed to the poor or spent by the state for the welfare of the poor and the hopeless. (Chaudhry ,. Rosyidi, 2012)

According to the sharia terms, zakat means a number of specific assets that have reached certain requirements which are obliged by God to be issued its part and given to those who deserve it with certain requirements as well. (Aziz and Ulfa, 2010)

Zakat is a wealth that must be issued by muzakki accordance with the provisions of sharia to be given to those who deserve it (mustahiq) (Muhammad, 2010).

The Distribution of Zakat

The payment of zakat by muzakki to mustahiq is another form of non-economic mechanism in wealth distribution. Zakat is a worship which must be implemented by the muzakki. In this case, the state is obligated to demand the people to pay their zakat. With the activities of such force, there will be a wealth circulation of the economic mechanisms from the rich to the poor. Zakat is then distributed to certain groups. There are eight asnaf (groups) that have been mentioned in the Qur'an. (Sholahuddin, 2007)

As formerly mentioned, the groups of people who deserve to obtain zakat are specified in Surah At-Tauba verse 60. Those eight groups are (Qardawi, 2011):

First, fakir (the poor) and miskin (the needy). One of Qur'an commentators, Tabari, emphasizes that the definition of fakir is that people who are in need, but can not avoid themselves in begging. Otherwise, miskin means that the people who are in need, but like to whine and beg . (Tafsir At-Tabari, vol. 14, in Qardawi, 2011)

Second, amil zakat. Amil Zakat means those who carry out the activities of zakat affairs, ranging from fundraisers to the treasurer, the guards, and also recording the income and outcome of zakat, and delivering zakat. Allah has determined a part of zakat as a reward for them and it is not taken in addition to zakat. (Qardawi, 2011)

Third, the group mu'allaf (reverts). These people are expected to strengthen their beliefs in islam, or to obstruct their malicious intent on the Muslims, or to expect that they are eager to defend and help the Muslims from the enemies. (Qardawi, 2011)

Fourth, the riqab (slave). Riqab is the plural word of raqabah. This term means bondsman (abid) and not bondswoman (amah). This term has close meaning to "release" or "discharge", as if Islam gives definition in a figurative meaning that slavery as the shackles that bound him. Freeing bondsman means to eliminate or remove the shackles that bound him. (Qardawi, 2011)

Fifth, al-Gharimun (people who are in debt). The sixth target of zakat, as stated in the Qur'an, is al-Gharimun (people who are in debt). Gharimun is the plural word of gharim, meaning that a person who has debt. Otherwise, ghariim means a debtor, this term is sometimes used for someone who has receivable accounts. (Qardawi, 2011)

Sixth, Fisabilillah (struggling in the way of Allah). Indeed, the meaning of this term is already clear. Sabil has close meaning to the way or the path. So, sabilullah means conveying path at the pleasure of Allah, whether the aqidah and the deeds (Qardawi, 2011). Fisabilillah means those who are struggling for many muslims so that they all get the pleasure of Allah SWT. The struggling here is also included in the efforts of the development of religions and also the country's development. (Huda and Heykal, 2010)

Seventh, Ibnu sabil. According to Imam Shafi'i, ibnu sabil means those who have spent all of their wealth (for religious interest) and also those who intend to travel but they do not have enough supplies. Both are given zakat to meet the needs as long as the intention to travel is not for immoral purpose (Al-Majmoo 'vol 6, MD 676H in Qardawi, 2011).

PROFESSION ZAKAT

Profession zakat in Islam is known as al-Kasab, the term means that the wealth acquired through various efforts, either through physical efforts, the mind, and services. It includes overall industries (the industry of fertilizer, paper, textiles, etc.), businesses (hotel business, entertainment, restaurants, etc.), export trading, real estate contractors, printing / publishing, supermarkets, etc.); services, such as consultants, notaries, commissioners, travel agents, beauty salon, trading, workshop, accounting, doctors, etc.); savings, such as deposits, stock trading, current accounts, and so forth. (Tim Multitama Communications, 2006)

The obligation to pay zakat is based on the texts of surah in Al-Quran, such as Surah At-Taubah verse 103 and Al-Baqarah verse 267 and also surah Az-Zariyat verse 19. (Hafiduddin, 2002)

Surah Al-Baqarah verse 26:

Translation: "O you who believe, spend in (the way of Allah) the part of good ones (your belongings) that you earn from your efforts and some of what we grew from the earth for you. And do not choose the bad ones from you to spend thereof, so that you are not willing to take it and with closing eyes toward it. And Allah is the Rich, the Praised. "(Ministry of Religious Affairs) Surah Az-Zariyat verse 19:

Translation: "And in their wealth there is a right for the poor who ask and the poor who do not get the part." (Ministry of Religious Affairs

According to Quthub (1977) as proposed by Hafidhuddin (2002), he interprets that the texts include the entire result of human efforts (especially the good ones and lawful) and also include the entire natural wealth provided by Allah, such as agricultural products, as well as the results mining e.g. oil mine. These texts therefore encompasses all assets, both existed at the time of Rasulullah Muhammad pbuh either known directly, or prefigured by him.

The lawful skills and any other occupations, either self-employed or associated with other parties, such as an employee or employees, and if their income and revenue have reached nishab, then it must be issued their zakat.

Thus, this is the conclusion based on Hafidhuddin's interpretation (Hafidhuddin, 2002):

First, the verses of the Qur'an explain the general nature that all kinds of wealth are required to issue their zakat.

Second, the various opinions of scholars in the past and present. Although using different terms, some scholars prefer to use a general term of al-amwaal, while the others prefer to use more specific term such as al-Maal al-mustafad which is listed in the fiqh of zakat (rules of zakat) and Al-Fiqh Al-Islamy Wa'adillatuhu. (Hafidhuddin, 2002)

Third, from the point of the justice which is the main characteristic of Islam, the obligation of zakat on any kind of wealth is very clear. The farmers whose crops have reached nishab must pay zakat. As well as the obligatory zakat on income earned by doctors, lawyers, consultants in various fields, teachers, clerks and employees, and other professions.

Fourth, in line with the development of human life, especially in the economic, earnings are acquired from many economic activities, as occurs in industrialized countries today. Provision of paying zakat shows how Islamic law is very aspirational and responsive to the times. (Hafidhuddin, 2002).

NISHAB, TIME, CRITERIA AND HOW TO PAY PROFESSION ZAKAT

Islam does not oblige to pay zakat on the entire wealth, either a little or a lot, but the obligation to pay zakat is only on the wealth that has reached nishab, net of debt, and more than owner's basic requirement. (Hasbi, 2008)

As a typical in islamic obligation, zakat is issued after reaching the minimum threshold for the obligations incurred. In other words, zakat is issued on the wealth owned by someone. The wealth to pay zakat in Islam is classified has to have fulfilled two conditions, namely: Firstly, the wealth has been up to the minimum limit of nishab. The minimum limit of nishab equals to the worth of 20 golden dinars. Whereas for agricultural products, most Islamic jurists explain that the zakat of results from every crops has no nishab limit. Secondly, the owners should have these properties in a period of one year, after reducing the cost of original needs, such as shelter, food and clothing. (Muhammad, 2013)

Futhermore, zakat of salaries, wages, fees, and other incomes of professional employment should not be issued unless those have reached nishab provision. The contemporary Islamic jurists explain that the profession zakat measurement is involved in the category of paying zakat asset category that is 85 grams of gold or 200 dirhams of silver and the ownership requirement has been through the perfection of haul. Whereas, for income from passive income, jurists explain that its zakat nishab is similar to the zakat of plantation and agriculture results, namely 750kg of rice (5 sha ') of crops, and in this case, the ownership should not have to reach one year period (it does not require haul limit). (Mufraini, 2006)

According to the holy Qur'an dan hadeeth, the obligation of paying zakat is only for those who have property which has already reached its nishab, and has reached a certain time limit of ownership. (Al Kaaf, 2002)

However, the zakat of salary, wage, earnings or other incomes does not require to reach a certain limit of ownership. The payment of zakat is only done after receiving and there is no obligation to issue the same zakat twice in one year. (Qardawi, 2011)

The percentage of issuing profession zakat is determined by the following provisions (Mufraini, 2006):

First, the percentage of active income Zakat is issued at 2.5% of the remaining assets of savings and it has reached nishab at the end of the haul.

Second, the percentage of passive income zakat is issued at 10% of the total gross or 5% of the net reduced by the expenses for primary and operational needs.

RESEARCH METHOD

The research design used in this study is descriptive research design. Descriptive research design is the design of research compiled in order to provide a systematic overview of scientific information derived from the subject or object of research. (Sanusi, 2011)

Location of the study was conducted in the city of Pekanbaru in Riau province. The subject of this research is the teachers of elementary schools, junior high schools and senior high schools whose status as civil servants in Pekanbaru, whereas the object of this study is the perception of Civil Servant teacher's in the city of Pekanbaru on the Mayor's instruction No. 1 year 2013 regarding income Zakat (Profession Zakat).

The population of this study was Civil Servant teachers of Pekanbaru City as many as 2,726 people derived from data in December 2015. (Source: ZCU of Department of Education in Pekanbaru City)

The sample was 96 teachers of elementary schools, junior high schools and senior high schools in 8 districts of Pekanbaru city, namely Bukit Raya, Marpoyan Damai, Limapuluh, Tenayan Raya, Tampan, Sail, Senapelan and Rumbai. The sampling technique in this research is simple random technique, whereas random sampling means that the sample members have the same opportunity to be sampled.

The method used in this study in analyzing the obtained data was the descriptive statistical method, it is a data presentation with charts, graphs, pie charts and percentages. From questionnaire data were gathered from the respondents, then the recapitulation data transformed the data from qualitative data into quantitative data by giving scores on a questionnaire. In determining the scores of each statement answers this study used Likert scale as follows:

Table 2: Score Categories

Response scale	Score
Strongly Agree (SA)	5
Agree (A)	4
Neutral (N)	3
Disagree (D)	2
Strongly Disagree (SD)	1

Source: Sugiyono (2013)

Response scales and scores in the table show the score categories are used to transform qualitative data based on the respondents' answers of the questionnaire into quantitative data on each indicator used in the operational concept.
